Our child safe policies, strategies and practices are inclusive of the needs of all children and students.

We have no tolerance for child abuse and take proactive steps to identify and manage any risks of harm to students in our school environments.

We promote positive relationships between students and adults and between students and their peers. These relationships are based on trust and respect.

We take proactive steps to identify and manage any risk of harm to students in our school environment. When child safety concerns are raised or identified, we treat these seriously and respond promptly and thoroughly.

Particular attention is given to the child safety needs of Aboriginal students, those from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, students with disabilities, those unable to live at home, children and young people who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, trans and gender diverse, intersex and queer (LGBTIQ+) and other students experiencing risk or vulnerability. Child safety is a shared responsibility. Every person involved in our school has an important role in promoting child safety and wellbeing and promptly raising any issues or concerns about a child's safety.

We are committed to regularly reviewing our child safe practices, and seeking input from our students, families, staff, and volunteers to inform our ongoing strategies.

At our school we identify, assess and manage risks to child safety and wellbeing in our physical and online school environments. These risks are managed through our child safety and wellbeing policies, procedures and practices, and in our activity specific risk registers, such as those we develop for off-site overnight camps, adventure activities and facilities and services we contract through third party providers for student use.

Other procedures in place to manage child safety and wellbeing include:

Student empowerment

To support child safety and wellbeing at Huntly Primary School, we work to create an inclusive and supportive environment that encourages students and families to contribute to our child safety approach and understand their rights and their responsibilities.

Respectful relationships between students are reinforced and we encourage strong friendships and peer support in the school to ensure a sense of belonging through the implemention of our whole school approach to Respectful Relationships, the Resilience Project (GEM), SWPBS, Circles program and our school values.

We inform students of their rights through:

- our whole school approach to Respectful Relationships program
- provide age appropriate and accessible information to students such as information about:
    - the school's Child Safety and Wellbeing Policy and Code of Conduct.
    - the Charter of Commitment under the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child
- our whole-school curriculum programs, with a focus on topics such as:
    - live and grow up healthy
    - have a say about decisions affecting them
    - get information that is important to them
    - be safe and not harmed by anyone

Give students the skills and confidence to recognise unsafe situations with adults or other students and to speak up and act on concerns relating to themselves or their peers. We ensure our students know who to talk to if they are worried or feeling unsafe and we encourage them to share concerns with a trusted adult at any time. Students and families can also access information on how to report concerns through the school office or speak to the child safety champion and or principal.

When the school is gathering information in relation to a complaint about alleged misconduct or abuse of a child, we will listen to the complainant's account and take them seriously, check our understanding of the complaint, support the student and keep them (and their parents and carers, as appropriate) informed about progress.

Huntly Primary School empowers students to contribute to school life through a variety of ways:

- Display visually engaging and easy-to-read posters promoting student voice and agency.
- Comprehensive student leadership program
- Demonstrate that the school takes students seriously by acting on their concerns, noting that what might seem unimportant to an adult may be important to a young person.
- Student leadership excursions
- Provide students who find it harder to speak up or be heard with multiple avenues for communicating, including writing, drawing, and using the wellbeing communication box

Empower students to raise their concerns

- Provide students with information about complaints processes.
- Give students a variety of ways to raise concerns. For example:
    - provide an anonymous, year-level student suggestion box
    - online surveys (google classroom)
    - school safety survey
- Highlight student views in your school community or public-facing documents, including quoting students where appropriate.

Family engagement

Our families and the school community have an important role in monitoring and promoting children's safety and wellbeing and helping children to raise any concerns.

To support family engagement, at Huntly Primary School we are committed to providing families and community with accessible information about our school's child safe policies and practices and involving them in our approach to child safety and wellbeing.

We do this by:

- Regularly engage with parents, carers and students and discuss the needs of students through parent/teacher interviews.

- Provide frequent opportunities for parents and carers to engage with staff to discuss their children's experiences at school.
- Communicate with and appropriately involve families at all stages of the process if a concern raised or complaint is made.
